

Seville

Designed in Italy on English Bull hides, Seville is milled during tanning to create a beautiful tipped grain that offers striking contrasts in color in the peaks and valleys of the grain across the leathers surface. Unlike machine tipping, this effect is achieved naturally in the milling process and imparts the leather with a surprisingly soft hand and a subtle polish to further enhance its appeal. An extensive retannage process also ensures it will retain its tipped grain when upholstered. Hides will average 50 square feet.
